Neonatal Resuscitation Around the World New Guidelines

International Webinar

Monday, June 7, 2021

15:00 CEST Time

Dear Invitee,

Each year there are around 140 million babies born worldwide. About 10% of them will need some kind of help in the transition during birth.

One of the major challenges in neonatology is to facilitate the transition at birth. To help us with this task, neonatologists around the world have developed the Neonatal Resuscitation Guidelines.

In this webinar, we are fortunate to have with us some of the world leaders that developed these guidelines to share their insights.

The participants in this webinar will gain a comprehensive worldwide perspective of neonatal resuscitation that we hope will help them to better care for this vulnerable population.
